psst.we are going to be running special sales all throughout the month of july...keep your eyes peeled on the website, facebook, and twitter. for weekly announcements.

class schedule and descriptions: because you can't spell f-u-n without y-a-r-n beginning knitting: you know there is a pretty convincing theory out there that when you stop learning new things you get old. i've never considered getting older a bad thing, but i'm pretty sure no one wants to be old. i mean not even my 97 year old grandparents want to be old...which is saying something. so here's to staving off old age...keep learning. and while you're at it, why not learn something that will be a skill that can grow with you? essentially knitting is a fountain of youth.... if that's not an amazing reason to justify taking the class i really don't know what is.

* well you could if things like grammar and correct spelling are really important to you...but lets all admit that creative spelling is more interesting. also it should be noted that i can't spell, so i might be biased. i think its safe to say that anytime we play scrabble you'll win, unless we play the drinking version...then we all win. cheers.....shannon christmas in july: cause honestly if you plan on giving people knitted things the time to start is now. (or you could just go with my plan and promise knitted things and them live with the idea that you will always break your promise...i think the family is catching on) the stocking: one of the most essential knitted items for the holidays ...christmas isn't christmas until the stockings are hung by the chimney with care right? and y'all are in for a treat, miss Meredith will be making her debut as a teacher for this class. if you don't already love her, you will. trust me.

$40 + supplies
 sat. july 2, 16, 23, & 30.....10-noon

felted dolls: the perfect gift for all the young people in your life...these dolls are rugged and handmade, which we all know makes them better than anything you can buy at a store. this is long session class so that you can have a completed doll ready to felt at the end.
